Wireframe

Currently for my final project the wireframe will reflect the webpage portion of the final. Ideal there would be a webpage and an app for the final to show how the project can be used by the different platforms without the restrictions. The website wireframe is very simple giving the user the ability to change how the content is viewed or displayed though I have yet to determine how that will change or look depending on the user but ideally the wireframe displays what I have in mind for the initial setup.
